SLATE MAKERS AT WORK.

Republican Managers Arranging Their County Ticket.

It is currently reported that Mr. Carl Wheeler, of the firm of Wheeler Brothers, liverymen, is to be the Republican candidate for sheriff this year. At least he has been slated for the nomination, and it is customary for the wishes of the slate makers to be followed by Republican conventions.

Since the last campaign Mr. W. B. Steele, of High Point, has been an avowed candidate for the nomination, and it has been thought by some that it would go to him. But the bosses have decided to nominate Mr. Wheeler and give High Point a candidate for the legislature—in all probability Mr. Will P. Ragan, a brother of Mr. Ed. L. Ragan, of the revenue force. One other available candidate for sheriff—ex-Sheriff Joe Hoskins—has been provided for by being given a position in the revenue service. As Mr. Steele is census supervisor, it is felt that he is effectually shelved, for this year at least.

Mr. Wheeler is a son of Mr. O. C. Wheeler, who was twice elected sheriff by the Democratic party, and who has since been a Republican.

The remainder of the places on the Republican ticket have not been filled, though there is no lack of candidates. It is probable that Mr. R. D. Douglas will be nominated for the State Senate.

HARRY LOUIS SMITH HONORED.

Elected President of Davidson College---A Gifted Educator.

Prof. Harry Louis Smith, Ph. D., a brother of Rev. Dr. E. W. Smith, of this city, was yesterday elected president of Davidson College to succeed Rev. Dr. Shearer, who resigned on account of feebleness and increasing age. The election goes into effect at the commencement of 1901, after which time Dr. Shearer will continue in the faculty, he and Prof. Smith merely exchanging positions.

Prof. Smith is 40 years old and is recognized as one of the most gifted and scholarly men engaged in educational work in this State. He graduated from Davidson College with the class of '81, and for the past nine years has occupied the chair of physics in the institution.

He is well fitted, both by training and disposition, to conduct a large and important educational institution, and it goes without saying that his administration at Davidson will be successful.

Prof. Smith passed his early life in Greensboro, and the people of this city feel a special interest in his career.

A DELIGHTFUL OCCASION.

The Annual Concert at Greensboro Female College Last Night.

Commencement at Greensboro Female College closed last night with the annual concert, probably the most delightful feature of commencement week. A program of rare excellence had been arranged and it was rendered in a most charming and skilful manner.

The program, which was in two parts, was made up of recitations, piano and vocal solos, duets and quartettes, a chorus and a drill.

Miss Nellie Merrimon's recitation, "The Heart of Old Hickory," was especially good and ilicited prolonged applause. Miss Merrimon's superior talent as an elocutionist does much credit to both herself and the institution from which she graduated.

Misses Lizzie and Nora Balsey's piano solos are also deserving of special mention. Their thorough training was displayed by the skill with which the difficult music was rendered.

"Bid Me Discourse," a very sweet vocal solo, was sung by Miss Mozelle Andrews. She has a rich, mellow voice and sings with a charm and grace of manner peculiarly her own.

THE ART EXHIBIT.

The art exhibit this year was an exceedingly and unusually fine one. The arrangement, too, of the pictures displayed the greatest taste. Miss Catherine F. Heiskell, the instructor, has every reason to feel very proud of the exhibit.

MAJ. JOE MOREHEAD WRITES.

The Second Maryland Regiment at Guilford Court House and the Coming Fourth of July.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

An account of a battle ought to be read upon the battlefield, if possible. Certainly no man should attempt to write such an account without familiarity with the grounds. The lay of the land will make plain the movements of the troops and prevent much error. At Guilford the Second Maryland acquired no laurels, though a few weeks later it bore itself in battle with conspicuous gallantry. Why was this? How did it happen? A glance at Clyde Spring and the grounds immediately surrounding it—the site of the regiment's discomfiture at Guilford, tells the story. It relieves the command of the odium that was perhaps attached, but unjustly. General Greene's third line, or line of regulars, faced west by southwest. It occupied the brow of a small hill or ridge running northwest and southeast, and consisted of four regiments of regulars, to-wit: On its extreme right, Colonel Greene's regiment of Virginians; on Greene's left, Colonel Haws; on Haws' left, the First Maryland with its left resting upon the Salisbury road, north side, and behind this, some fifty steps, the Second Maryland with its left also resting upon the Salisbury road.

The First Maryland only having been in battle and having an established reputation exceeded by none seems to have been here located by General Greene, because he judged, and as the event proved correctly, that the dense woods and undergrowth on both sides of the road westward to his front line, eight hundred yards distant, would compel Cornwallis to advance eastward along the road, as far as the exigencies of the action would allow. Thus in antagonizing this third line Cornwallis would first strike the First Maryland. Two long and straight excavations, entrenchments in my opinion, show that Greene had strengthened this point both by entrenchments and "doubling" his line here. In his report he says that he here had a "double front."

Thus we see that the enemy was confidently expected to approach from the west. It so turned out, however, in the fortunes of the day, that the First Maryland, having been attacked by the Thirty-third, under Col. Webster, had defeated the Thirty-third and pursued them some two or more hundred yards westward before their recall to their original position. The battle had now raged for one and one-half hours—south, north and east—the different commands being scattered from one-fourth to more than a mile apart, in woods so dense that no man knew where his neighbor was. This applies to Greene's two front lines and the British only, since Greene's third line maintained practically their original position till the close of the action. It so happened that at this junction the Second Queen's Guards of Highlanders struck this line of regulars upon its left, that is, they struck the Second Maryland from the southeast, and with such suddenness that, as Judge Johnson tells us. Greene himself narrowly escaped capture. The Second Maryland, raw troops, though regulars, being thus taken by surprise upon their flank and rear, separated from the main line by the absence of the First Maryland, were naturally enough demoralized and stampeded.

Beside their historic association, as the scene of an exceedingly bloody conflict, the grounds around the Clyde are strikingly picturesque and interesting. The reader's attention is especially directed to this spot on the occasion of our grand celebration on the approaching Fourth of July.

Respectfully,
JOSEPH M. MOREHEAD.

A Still Hunt For Stills.

Yesterday Messrs. Ed. L. Ragan, Carl Wheeler and Price Easley went down into a section of the country a few miles south of town for the purpose of cutting up an illicit distillery, but before returning they demolished three manufactories of moonshine liquor. The distilleries were located in the lower edge of Guilford and just over the line in Randolph. One of them had just been set up, the "cap" not yet being in position.

KRUGER FLEES FOR HOLLAND.

BRITISH FLAG FLYING IN PRETORIA.

The Old President Fled on a Special Train to Lorenzo Marquez, Sending Large Consignments of Gold Ahead—Pandemonium in London—Stocks Booming.

By Wire to the Telegram.

London, May 31—Roberts is master at Pretoria today and the British flag flies there. President Kruger is a fugitive. He fled on a special train from Pretoria and probably is at Lorenzo Marquez today enroute to Holland. Large consignments of gold were sent ahead of the escaping president.

Roberts has dictated terms for the surrender of the capital, which have been accepted. The news was received here too late last night for London to know of it. This morning pandemonium reigns.

The occupation of Pretoria and the presumption that no injury is done to the level mines on the Rand gave great strength to the market. Kaffir mining stocks were booming and consols advanced three qurrters.

KRUGER REPORTED CAUGHT.

London, May 31—It is rumored that Kruger has been caught six miles beyond Pretoria.

SHALL WE HAVE A FRUIT FAIR?

It Would be of Interest and Advantage to Greensboro.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

There has been some talk of holding a meeting of the State Horticultural Society in Greensboro on August 9th and 10th, and at the same time holding a fruit or regular horticultural fair, which is of great interest to our town, county and State, which no one can deny. And to accomplish this undertaking, the town should take an interest in it and arrange the ways and means for such a fair. It has been suggested that we have a free fair, and the merchants would only be too glad to offer premiums of their various wares as an advertisement. That being the case, we believe $100 would pay the outside expenses.

So, as presidnnt of the society, I would like to know if the people of Greensboro want such a meeting and fair, and who will take an interest in the matter, as it should be attended to at once, as, if we decide to hold it in Greensboro on the date mentioned, we should have some two months to advertise it.

The Banner Warehouse, a suitable place for holding the fair, has been offered us.

CENSUS MEN ON THE MOVE.

Enumerators Will Begin Work Tomorrow ---The Greensboro Force.

Tomorrow in every city, town, village and neighborhood in the United States will be begun the work of enumerating the population of the nation and gathering other valuable information. In country districts and small towns the law requires the work to be completed within 12 days, but in towns the size of Greensboro and larger the enumerators will be given 30 days in which to complete their task.

The questions will be asked in Greensboro by the following persons:

First Ward—A. H. Stack.
Second Ward—Miss Mabel Kase.
Third Ward—J. C. Bain.
Fourth Ward—Warren Poole.
Fifth Ward—J. A. Davis.
Sixth Ward—F. K. Trogdon.

THE FIGHTING OF TUESDAY.

Brunt of It Fell Upon Hamilton Who Had Gone to Support French.

By Wire to the Telegram.

London, May 31—Roberts cables under date of Wednesday that at Germiston the brunt of the fighting of Tuesday fell upon Hamilton's column. He had sent him to work around the west of Johannesburg to support French's cavalry, which was directed to go north near the road leading to Pretoria. He says: "Have not heard from French yet. Hamilton's report, which has just reached me, states that about 1 o'clock in the afternoon he found his way blocked by the enemy strongly posted on kopjes and ridges three miles south of the Rand. They had two heavy guns, several field guns and pompons. Hamilton immediately attacked. The Gordons captured one extremity of the ridge and cleared it of the enemy, who fought most obstinately.

A NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT.

Miss Kase Gives a "Railroad Party"--No "Twosing" Allowed Except in the Baggage Car--Only Two in a Coach When Going Through Tunnels.

Miss Mabel Kase was the hostess lust night at a most delightful and decidedly novel entertainment. This was a railroad party and consisted of a series of well known card games arranged to progress from table to table. The score cards were made to represent railroad tickets, and of course this road, like all well conducted ones, had rules and conditions upon which the passengers could ride. Among them were these very clever ones: "Absolutely no 'twosing' allowed except in the baggage car where a special place is provided." "This company will not be liable for lovers' quarrels, flirtations, or loss of temper," and "Only two passengers allowed in one car when going through tunnels." On the other side of the score card were the names of the towns along the route—"Whistler," "Euchre City," "Heartsville," etc., which were of course the different games played at each table. Cute little bells, which carried out the railroad idea, served as counters. The fun kept up until the "first call for supper in the dining car."

Miss Berta Mebane and Miss Imogene Bernard having secured the greatest number of games, cut for the ladies' prize, which Miss Bernard fell heir to—a lovely little fan. Mr. Appleton Staples and Mr. Bob Douglas also had to cut for the gentleman's prize, which Mr. Douglas secured—a handsome paper knife. Miss Roberson received the consolation prize—which was several expired passes in a small picture frame.

Miss Kase's guests were: Mrs. Sutcliffe, Misses Sloan, Jones, Roberson, Nichols, Goolsby, Peyton, Staples, Small, Net Sloan, Porter, Dick, Lyon, Fry, O'Brien, Bernard, Horry, and Messrs. Blount, Cone, Macgill, Alford, Carter, Tallman, Staples, Powe, Mebane, Douglas, Bradley, Horry, McAdoo, Michaux, Gold and Dr. Roberson.

Several days ago the little boy of Jacob Maynard was struck on the head with a rock, supposed to have been thrown by the fireman at the Snow Basket Works. A crowd of boys were battling with stones when the accident occurred, and it is claimed several of the missles were thrown at the fireman who, in turn, pitched a rock or so into the crowd of boys, with the result as above stated. After the trouble the fireman left town. He was apprehended in Winston Tuesday and brought here for trial. Although he plead guilty there was no evidence against him and as it was thought he did not intend to do any harm, but only to frighten the boys, the case was dismissed at the cost of the plaintiff.

Pompey Gordon, a respected negro and one of the staunchest pillows in the colored Baptist church here, claims to have had a thing or two revealed to him. One night not long ago he dreamed that a large, bright star fell from the heavens and destroyed the earth. A few nights after, while lying on his bed, wide awake, he was shaken as if by an earthquake, and a voice from above spoke to him, saying: "The meaning of this will be made known to you." Pompey says that no one in the house experienced the shock besides himself. He vows that he was wide awake and does not like for any one to think otherwise, however strange the occurrence may seem. Pompey bears a good name among his race, and whatever he says goes among his race. He insists that something is going to happen because of his strange experience.

SUPERIOR QUALIFICATIONS.

PROF. CLAXTON FOR PRESIDENT.

Supt. Crowell Says He is by All Means the Man for the Place---No Man No More Thoroughly in Sympathy With Public Education.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

When, almost a penniless youth, with a heart yearning to acquire a collegiate education that I might to some extent attain unto the ideals then abiding in my soul; when I was not able to enter the college of my faith, on account of its lack of funds for needy students, and I almost despaired as to what steps to pursue; when, like Bruce of Scotland, I cried: "I'll give it up," just then, through the beneficence of the big-hea·ted Dr. Battle, the University took me in, transformed me from the darkness of ignorance into the light of intelligence, qualified me for the attainment of any cherished hope, and stimulated in my heart such a fondness and admiration for learning, growth and development that I shall not let the cause of my destiny drag in the dust until I am crowned victor over the last enemy.

Were I not grateful to my alma mater for such unbounded philanthropy and life, and most zealous of her present welfare and future progress, I would deserve contempt, such as if I were to scorn my mother.

Hence, these bold and brave words in an hour when the University's great leader, Dr. Alderman, has left her, and she is considering the ability of numerous other educators, to promote the one best equipped to fill the position made vacant by his resignation and to take up the banner where Dr. Alderman laid it down and bear it heroically on until the Old North State is rescued from the thralldom of ignorance.

Dr. Alderman is a great man—great in character, great on the rostrum, great as an educator, powerful in example at home and abroad; but history teaches that no man is so great but that there is another just as great For example, for every Napoleon there is a Wellington, for every Lee there is a Grant. And, therefore, I arise before the public and second the nomination of Prof. P. P. Claxton, of the State Normal and Industrial College, of Greensboro, as a man eminently qualified to be president of the University, and urge the trustees to weigh heavily the following essential requisites in his favor:

First. There is scarcely a man anywhere profounder in liberal learning, pedagogic and history of education.

Secondly. There is no man in North Carolina or elsewhere more closely identified and more thoroughly in sympathy with public education.

Thirdly. With due respect to any and all our great educators, not one is more magnetic and entertaining on the rostrum, and more popular with the public school teacher, county superintendents and supervisors.

Fourthly. He is energetic, enthusiastic, progressive and with his fine Christian character in bold relief would proclaim the gospel of Christian education from the mountains to the sea, both by precept and example.

Fifthly. Like the present incumbent, he is no politician and the University, under his administration, would continue to enjoy progressive and real life instead of being handicaped by the stagnant effects of party machinery.

Sixthly. He is a native of North Carolina, has already devoted years of successful effort in her uplift, and if thus encouraged will live and die in her midst dispensing light and wholesome influence.

Infernnce: Any fair-minded citizen of North Carolina would readily concede that these requisites should be enthroned in the heart and mind of any man who is the president of the University.

Will any one deny that they are not very prominent in the lfie of Prof. Claxton? To say they are not is as expressionless as saying Shakespeare is not prominent among literateurs.

Then, gentlemen of the trustees, Prof. P. P. Claxton is the logical man for president of the University.

The Sign Painters.

The question has been asked of sign painters hundreds of times, "Which letter of the alphabet do you consider the hardest or most difficult to make?" It is but natural to make the inquiry, for to the novice some particular letters are more perplexing than others. It is most generally conceded by some experts that the Roman capital letter "R" is the most difficult. Others will say that an "S" is very hard to make, and many strongly contend that the character "&" is the hardest and most difficult of any in the entire alphabet. Practically speaking, all of these letters are somewhat difficult, and to the young beginner they are not easily mastered.

It has frequently been supposed that an artist of ability on account of his great talent in drawing would of course naturally make a good sign painter, but the experiment has been tried and given up with unsatisfactory results.

An artist may draw and paint a most beautiful picture, but when it comes to forming a perfect letter he is entirely out of the race. About 47 years ago there were five well known artists of this city who were also experts at lettering, they having learned and worked at this branch previously.

Mr. A. S. James, of Columbia, Tenn., was best man, with Miss Marjorie Richardson as maid of honor. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John S. Pleasants.

After the ceremony the bride and groom left for Ise of Palms, S. C., where they will spend a short while. They will reside in Florence, Ala.

A Train Wrecked by an Elephant.

Allentown, Pa., Special, 28th, to Philadelphia Record.

Frank Bostock's show train, en route from Wilkesbarre to Newark, N. J., was partly wrecked this morning on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, near Coplay, Lehigh county. The train was running 30 miles an hour, when the elephant "Sport" backed against the car door and broke it. "Sport" fell out of the car and broke one of his thighs. Several cars were demolished.

The Buffalo express soon after ran into the debris, and Eugene Victory, a showman, had his leg so badly crushed that it had to be amputated.

The injured elephant was hoisted on the train, and, after a delay of three hours, the show proceeded on its way.

"Nuffin," replied the hopeful. "I was just finkin that me an Bob an Mazie allus seems to get birds an snakes an fings wiv skinny legs, but pop, generally gets a el'phant or a hipperpotamus."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

When Not to Keep Books.

She decided that the only way to run a house economically was to keep a set of books, so she made all necessary purchases, including a bottle of red ink, and started in.

It was a month later when her husband asked her how she was getting along.

"Splendidly," she replied.

"The system is a success, then?"

"Yes, indeed. Why, I'm $60 ahead already!"

"Sixty dollars!" he exclaimed. "Heavens! You'll be rich before long. Have you started a bank account?"

"No-o, not yet."

"What have you done with the money?"

"Oh, I haven't got the money, you know! That's only what the books show. But just think of being $60 ahead!"

"Um, yes! But I don't exactly see"—

"And all in one month too!"

"Of course. But the money? What has become of that?"

"I don't exactly know," she said doubtfully. "I've been thinking of that, and I think we must have been robbed. What do you think we had better do about it?"

He puffed his pipe in solemn silence for a moment and then suggested:

"We might stop keeping books. That's easier than complaining to the police."—Atlanta Constitution.

The Lecturer's Blunder.

One of the institutions of New York that are praised by all the public without reserve is the course of free lectures in the public schools. These lectures are given before splendid audiences and, as a rule, by persons of veracity and intelligence. Occasionally, however, in order to get a lecture on a rare subject great risks are run,

Recently a lecture was given by a person who had been on an excursion to the North cape. Among other wonderful things he saw there was the eclipse of the sun. He gasped for breath as he told of the weirdly grand sight. He told of the streamers of fire that blazed from the obscured orb to all quarters of the heavens. But his frenzy carried him too far for a public school audience, for he declared that among the stars made visible in the midst of day he saw the planets circling in their courses. He even called the planets that he saw by name, but he made a fatal mistake. He said he saw Neptune.

This statement called for a round of sarcastic applause that he mistook for commendation, for he smiled in a happy way as it echoed through the halls. Evidently he did not know that Neptune is invisible except with the most powerful telescope.—New York Mail and Express.

Saved His Honor.

"Vat ees eet, Jean?"

"Monsieur, ze doctaire comes today to vaccinate monsieur."

"Nevaire! I vill die first! Eet ees degrading! Eet ees an insult!"

"But, monsieur, eet ees also ze law."

"Shameful! How can I suffaire a beast of a doctaire wi hees brutal weapone to stab me—me, ze Count de Mooscalonge? Nevaire!"

"But eet ees ze law, monsieur."

"Perfidious law! Ah, I have eet! I have eet now! Beautiful! Listen! You will prepaire ze swords!"

"Ze swords, monsieur?"

"Prepaire ze swords. On ze point of one sword, monsieur, ze doctaire will rub his vaccinate mattaire. See? Zen he will diffaire from me on a questione. I will feel insulted. I will challenge ze doctaire. He will accept, naming swords as ze weapons. We will fight at once, and here ze doctaire takes ze prepaired swords. See? One, two, three! Ze doctaire pricks me slightly in ze arm. Ha, ha! Honor is satisfied! I am vaccinate!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

GOOD PLUMBING

Costs less than poor and unsanitary work,

It may cost a little more at first to have us do your work as it should be done, but you will save the second installment which is so often paid to the "doctor" when work is not properly done. Let us do your plumbing and it will be done right, and the price will be as low as consistent with good work.

SPAIN'S GREATEST NEED

Mr. R. P. Olivia, of Barcelona, Spain, spends his winters at Aiken, S. C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of his head. On using Electric Bitters, America's greatest blood and nerve remedy, all pain soon left him. He says this grand medicine is what his country needs. All America knows that it cures liver and kidney trouble, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach, strengthens the nerves, puts vim, vigor and new life into every muscle, nerve and organ of the body. If weak, tired or ailing you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50c. Sold by C.E. Holton druggist.

EDITOR'S AWFUL PLIGHT

F. M. Higgins, Editor Seneca, (Ill.,) News, was afflicted for years with piles that no doctor or remedy helped until he tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve. He writes that two boxes wholly cured him. It's the surest pile cure on earth and the best salve in the world. Cure guaranteed. Only 25 cents. Sold by C. E. Holton druggist.

I WISH TO INFORM YOU

that I have moved my shoe shop to No. 206 South Davie street, between John J. Phoenix and C. A. Clapp's stores, opposite the market house, where I will do first class work using only the best stock and save you ten per cent in price. L. B. Albertson.

A PLEASURE AND A DUTY.

I consider it not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to my neigbors to tell about the wonderful cure affected in my case by the timely use of Chamberlain' Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy. A few doses of it affected a permanent cure. I take pleasure in recommending it to others suffering from that dreadful disease.—J. W. Lynch, Dorr, W. Va. This remedy is sold by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

WE ARE ORIGINATORS:

Not Imitators!

White Delivery Wagons have been a distinguishing mark of the Greensboro Steam Laundry for a number of years. Our customers have learned to "look out for the white wagons."

Competitors have seen fit to imitate our wagons, therefore we deem it wise to make a change.

Our wagons are now in the shop. About May 1st they will come out green, our forme color. In the mean time would respectfullly request our friends and patrons ta BEWARE of the white laundry wagons and see to it that the right driver gets the bundle. To avoid any possible confusion, in future our wagons will be lettered.

SENSITIVE WOMAN.

There is a wonderful little tropical plant, the mimosa or sensitive plant as it is called. The curious thing about it is that if you pinch any part of the root or the stem, all the delicate little branches and fragile leaves will curl up and shrink together as if they had been blighted with a sudden frost.

Woman's delicate and sensitive organism is remarkably like this little plant. If the very roots of a woman's life are injured or diseased, her whole being suffers, both physical and mental. She shrinks within herself and covers up her sufferings enduring all in silence as best she may.

"My son's wife had been for years a great sufferer; all broken down and very weak and nervous," says Mrs. Betsey M. White, of Stonycreek, Warren Co., N. Y. "She was troubled with all the pains and aches one s[illegible] could endure. She took everything she heard of, hoping to get help, but in vain. The doctors said she could not live to have another child as she came near dying so many times. She tried Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it did wonders for her.

"This spring she had a nice boy weighing eleven pounds; she got through before we could get anyone there. I was afraid she would not live. We cried for joy when we saw how nicely she got along. I cannot say enough in praise of your 'Favorite Prescription.' I never sent a recommendation of a medicine before. I hope all women will try it. May God bless you for the good you have done."

Any woman may write to R. V. Pierce, M. D., of Buffalo, N. Y., in absolute confidence. Her communication will be thoroughly and earnestly considered and she will receive sound, professional, fatherly advice (in a plain sealed envelope) free of charge.

THURSDAY, MAY 31, 1900.

AS USUAL, THE EARS ARE VISIBLE.

We are not cognizant of any code of newspaper courtesy which compels, or even admits, a presumably friendly contemporary to publish in its columns an anonymous attack upon a neighboring paper by an irresponsible mud-slinger, whose name is doubtless so well worn that he carefully refrains from further use of it. However, if that is the standard of newspaper ethics in the office of our city contemporary, we can have no reasonable objection to its living up to it, reserving only the right to excuse ourselves from adopting like standards.

As to the article referred to, headed "The Dispensary Question," and signed "Anti-Dispensary Democrat," which is a specious plea against the doctrine and spirit of white supremacy, we shall waste no words. We have yet to see the anonymous attack that did not show the ass' ears, and this one is no exception to the rule. Commencing with the very sentence which began a scurrilous and anonymous pamphlet circulated last week, attacking about everything which the purblind originator could crowd into his vision at one installment, we have no doubt that it came from the same source—which source, we are credibly informed, is a bushwhacking Democrat and two Republicans. We have only to say that if the writer of the Record article is not too jealous of his name to let it be known, and it is not too much of the burnt-orange hue, we shall be glad to enlighten him, or them, on any questions that may be propounded. Till then we may or may not read any of the dark-hued hodge-podge that they may be pleased to fire at the Telegram through the columns of our obliging and brotherly contemporary. Meanwhile, as heretofore, the columns of the Telegram are open to the publication of any article of criticism of its own opinions, and those wishing to criticise or attack it will be given abundant space in which to do so, in order that the good and obliging nature of our contemporary may not be imposed upon.

THE TORY AND THE TOADY.

At this present moment our beloved country is suffering from an acute revival of that Toryism which shouted for George the Third in 1776, and which threatened the disruption of the Union in 1812. It presents itself in a somewhat different aspect, but it is no whit less detestable and contemptible now than at the earlier dates.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Our very much esteemed contemporary makes a sweeping and unjust accusation against such of the American people as happen to think well of English institutions and who are disposed to give them credit for the benefit they have been to the world. There is no more similarity between the Toryism of the time of George the Third and what the Virginian-Pilot is pleased to term the toadyism of the present than there is between black and white. And as for the Toryism that threatened to disrupt this country in 1812, that is quite a new chapter in American history. The opposition in certain sections of the country to the War of 1812 was a purely selfish motive, a fear that it would hurt trade. There was even an excuse for the Toryism of 1776; it was the result of a mistaken idea of the allegiance due the person of the sovereign, an idea which only radical America was beginning to outgrow, and one which it could not be expected should at once be universally adopted. We yield to no one in reverence for our Revolutionary heroes, but we cannot close our eyes to the fact that Toryism was a not unreasonable product of the times.

There may be a disposition among some people in America to be too enthusiastic in their expressions of admiration for England, but these are not so nearly as bad off as are that very large class among us who look through the eyes of the Populist who solemnly averred that "England sent a man over here with $500,000 and bought up the whole of the American Congress." And there may be a number of people in the United States who foolishly and slavishly imitate English customs and manners, but we object to the Virginian-Pilot's sweeping statement that all Americans who do not look through the above-mentioned Populist's spectacles, belong to this class. Really, we believe our friend sometimes wears these glasses.

The incoming month is likely to see the complete vanishment of Boer power in South Africa. The Boers fell victims to their belief that England wouldn't fight. The vanishing nation are a brave people, and they have put up an astonishingly noble fight, and like our own South, have saved only honor.

The Stomach.

Large portions of the stomach may be excised, or even the whole may be removed, with no very great mortality, and in successful cases with wonderfully little effect on the patient's digestion. The stomach hardly occupies in our present opinion so important a place in digestion as it formerly held. We know that it is rather a preparer for the exercise of the digestive powers of the pancreas than an active digestive agent itself and that one of its functions is to render innocuous many of the micro-organisms which enter with the food. So we can understand to some extent the small amount of interference with digestion produced by even considerable resections of the stomach.—Lancet.

Cassava and Fish.

Cassava and fish form the chief articles of food of the Caribs of Guatemala, and the former is cultivated only in sufficient quantities for their daily needs, as a vegetable to eat with their fish, to make their strange bread and to make the cassareep, which forms their only sweet.

Two Uplifters.

"What," exclaimed the orator—"what two things are helping mankind to get up in the world?"

"The alarm clock and the stepladder," answered the dense person in the rear of the hall.—Baltimore American.

It always makes a man mad to have his name misspelled in a newspaper, because he believes everybody ought to know his name.—Atchison Globe.

No man is absolutely perfect, but one who acknowledges his faults is more than half way up the ladder.—Chicago News.

The Boy's "Friend."

A boy having been taken to task for violation of school rules, the principal, a woman, told him to ask his father to call at the school. Next day the boy appeared with a rather seedy looking man whom he introduced as his father. The head of the school and visitor had a talk, and the latter promised to do all in his power to make the boy see the error of his ways. Some days later the boy was overheard saying to some of his companions: "I played a good joke on Miss Blank. I introduced a bum as me father, and she never caught on."

"Wasn't that man your father?" asked one of the listeners.

"Nope," was the answer. "He was me friend."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Family Resemblance.

A young gentleman took his little sister with him while calling the other evening at a house where he is a regular visitor. The little girl made herself quite at home and showed great fondness for one of the young ladies, hugging her heartily.

"How very affectionate she is," said the lady of the house.

"Yes; so like her brother," responded the young lady unthinkingly.—Buffalo Courier.

Welcome Change.

"My dear," began the extravagant young wife, "I've got several things I want to talk to you about."

"Ah, that's a relief!" exclaimed the husband.

"What is?"

"To be assured that you've got the things you want to talk about. You generally discourse upon things you need."—Philadelphia Press.

Squelching an Encore Fiend.

The long, solemn gentleman with the piercing eyes tapped gently on the shoulder of the encore fiend in front of him.

"Allow me to present you," said he, handing the applauder a small paper package.

"What does this mean?" asked the recipient wrathfully as he opened the package and found about $2 in dimes and nickels.

"It means this," replied the solemn gentleman: "I have noticed your earnest efforts to have everything twice. Therefore I have taken up this small collection in order that you may come tomorrow instead of trying to get your two performances in one evening."—Indianapolis Press.

is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been to low and are just now getting reasonable. JUST TWO KINDS OF PEOPLE.

BY ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

There are two kinds of people on earth today,
Just two kinds of people, no more I say.
Not the sinner and saint, for 'tis well understood
The good are half bad and the bad half good.
Not the rich and the poor, for to count a man's wealth,
You must first know the state of his conscience and health.
Not the humble and proud; for in life's little span,
Who puts on vain airs is not counted a man.
Not the happy and sad; for the swift flying years
Bring each man his laughter and each man his tears.
No; the two kinds of people on earth I mean
Are the people who lift and the people who lean.
Wherever you go, you will find the world's masses
Are always divided in just these two classes.
And oddly enough you will find, too, I ween,
There is only one lifter to twenty who lean.
In which class are you? Are you easing the load
Of overtaxed lifters who toil down the road?
Or are you a leaner, who lets others bear
Your portion of labor and worry and care?

Egyptian Chicken Factories.

In his volume on "Present Day Egypt" Frederick Penfield thus describes one of the interesting sights in the neighborhood of the pyramids, the incubators in the native villages. "It will be found," he says, "that the incubator is constructed of sun dried bricks and so arranged internally that the eggs, placed in mud constructed ovens on trays cushioned with cut straw, are constantly under the attendant's view. No scientific apparatus is employed by this man, not even a thermometer. He knows from experience and his own feeling how much heat is needed, and he systematically turns the eggs several times each day until they are developed into peeping chicks.

"These hatching establishments exist throughout middle and upper Egypt and in a season bring fully 20,000,000 chickens into the world that grow up to be scrawny, unattractive fowls. The industry is thousands of years old and seems conclusively to settle the question of a chicken's maternity by allocating that parentage to the hen laying the egg.

"The incubator is a foster mother only and is responsible for stifling the 'setting' instinct with Egyptian hens. The keepers of the incubators have a system of traffic with peasant farmers by which eggs are purchased outright or six live chicks given in exchange for a dozen fresh eggs."

Death to the Workmen.

It was in an art store in Fifth avenue, and the dealer was showing gilded clocks and candelabra to a customer. Pointing to one particularly handsome set, he said, "That is worth $350." Pointing to another of similar pattern, but not so handsome, he said, "That is worth $600."

"But the other one is better," said the customer.

"Well," said the dealer, "the chief value of this one (pointing to the $600 affair) is in the gilding. It was gilded by the mercury process which is now forbidden by law almost everywhere. The other one was treated with the electroplating process."

"Well, it's handsomer," said the customer. "Is it as durable? If it is, why should I pay $250 more?"

"It is practically as durable, and it is handsomer," said the dealer. "But you can duplicate it, and you can't duplicate the other. The mercury process of gilding was death to the workmen who engaged in it. They inhaled the fumes of the mercury, and in the end it killed them, and it wasn't long doing it, either."

"I'll take the mercury one," said the customer, "but the other is handsomer."—New York Sun.

The Cossacks of the Don.

The Don Cossacks are the finest looking race of men ever seen. Kingly in their carriage, tall and slender, lithe and graceful, their untamed spirit visible in every motion, their bearing is that of an unconquered people. Used as a living barrier against the Tartar invasions of Russia, they were never conquered. Living in what they call camps, each with his horse and gun, they are always ready to move in response to the emperor's call.

Their costume is a long, tight fitting coat reaching to the knee, having loose sleeves and a small, standing collar and with a row of ammunition pockets across the breast. The colored belt which encircles the Cossack's slender waist bristles with ornamented knives, daggers and pistols. Soft, high boots without heels and a great lamb's wool cap, with a little touch of color for the soft crown, and then the burka or long cape of hairy felt which they seem to wear in all sorts of weather complete the costume. These burkas appear to be worn on the theory that what keeps out the cold keeps out the heat. Anyway, these long black or white garments protect horse and rider equally from the rain and cold.—Self Culture.

A Probable Result.

"If people were only compelled to practice what they preach!" sighed the theorist.

"What good would that do?" demanded the practical man.

"It would make the world better, wouldn't it?"

"Oh, I don't know. I'm inclined to think that whatever changes we noticed would be in the preaching rather than in the practice."—Chicago Post.

His Shots.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "I want you to be more careful about the use of firearms."

"Why, I haven't"—

"Charley, dear," she proceeded, with sweet severity, "you mustn't try to deceive me. I heard you telling yesterday about how you fell down on a long shot. If you must go in for such things, please get a gun that won't kick."—Washington Star.

Due to Ignorance.

"He thinks he's famous."

"Well, he never was much of a man for acquiring knowledge."

"What has that to do with it?"

"Why, he probably never has consulted the dictionary and learned the difference between fame and notoriety."—Chicago Post.

GRETNA GREEN IN CHARLOTTE.

Commencement of the Presbyterian College.

Correspondence of the Telegram.

Charlotte, May 30.—The commencement season is in full blast this week in Charlotte.

Last night the closing concert at the Presbyterian College took place, and on Friday, June 1, the closing exercises at Elizabeth College will be inaugurated.

The programme at Elizabeth will consist of the following:

June 1.—8:30 p. m. Address before the Literary Societies by Prof. Lawton B. Evans.

June 2.—Art Reception in afternoon.

June 3.—11 a. m. Baccalaureate sermon by Dr. W. C. Shaeffer.

8:30 p. m. Address before Missionary society by Rev. A. C. Mueller.

June 4.—8:30 p. m. Annual Concert.

June 5—11 a. m. Commencement exercises.

The following are the graduates A. B. Course—Mary Lee Banister and Maude Schaeffer.

B. L. Course—Emilie N. Schultze and Daisy Stewart.

Piano—Emmie W. Hains, Nan Beatrice Koening and Katherine Seagle.

A committee of prominent citizens has been formed here for the purpose of soliciting subscriptions for the rebuilding of St. Mary's College. The canvass will begin next week.

An interesting gretna green affair was developed here today when it became known that Mr. John De Lane and Miss Beckie Leon were married at Rock Hill today. There was objection on the part of the bride's parents which caused the young people to take matters into their own hands. Both are well known young people here.

How Peary Retrieved Wild Ducks.

Lieutenant R. E. Peary, the arctic explorer, was born in Maine. He prepared himself for entering Bowdoin college at Fryeburg academy in Fryeburg, in the western part of the state. The following story of Peary's early days shows his method of overcoming obstacles:

One of his fellow townsmen while out hunting one day in November discovered a flock of ducks in a pond about two miles from the village. The man wanted the birds, but knew no way of getting them, even if his shot were effective, for he had no dog, and there was no boat in the pond. On his way home he met Peary and told him about the ducks and why he had not fired at them.

"Now," said Peary, "let's go back to the pond, and if the ducks are still there I promise to retrieve all you kill."

They returned to the pond; the ducks were undisturbed. The weather had been cold for several days, ice had formed around the shore of the pond, and the ducks were bunched out in open water, but within range. Merrill fired and killed two. Without more ado than if he were about to take a dip in the old swimming hole on a hot July day Peary removed his clothing, broke the ice with a heavy stick and swam out, picked up the dead birds and brought them to land.—Saturday Evening Post.

Venice Without Water.

Venice without water would hardly be Venice at all, but we are assured there is a possibility that the picturesque Venice of today may become a city of the past, and eventually Venice may be waterless.

According to Professor Marinelli, the regular increase in the delta of the river Po is such that in process of time the northern Adriatic will be dry, and Venice will no more be upon the sea. The annual surveys show that the mean annual increase of the delta during 70 years has been three-tenths of a square mile.

An encroachment upon the sea of three-tenths of a mile in a year means a large increase in a century. It appears that the total increase in six centuries has been about 198 square miles. The increase is continuing, and the gulf of Venice is doomed to disappear.

No immediate alarm need be felt, and it will not be necessary to hurry off to Venice to take a farewell look at the city in its present picturesqueness. Professor Marinelli calculates that between 100 and 120 centuries will elapse before the entire northern Adriatic will have become dry land.—Youth's Companion.

A young man seems to be willing to make almost any sacrifice for the girl he loves except to go home early and save her from a scolding next morning.—Atchison Globe.

When one woman has a secret to tell another, it always makes her mad to discover that the other knew it first.—Chicago News.

All who suffer from piles will be glad to learn that DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will give them instant and permanent relief. It will cure eczema and all skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. Howard Gardner.

How They Eat.

The editor of Life and Beauty, a British organ on hygiene and diet, succeeded in eliciting from a few popular writers replies on the subject of diet which they find most conducive to good work.

Hall Caine wrote: "I am afraid I have no theories on the subject of diet. If I knew anything that would be worth telling, I would avail myself of its advantages, being a constant martyr to all the troubles that attend diet."

Mr. Zangwill's answer was brief and epigrammatic, "Unfortunately I have never eaten to work, but always worked to eat."

"John Oliver Hobbes" confessed that she "tried vegetarianism for two years, but now finds that, on the whole, the ordinary diet of the country is the best."

Mme. Sarah Grand said she never drank milk. "I never forget the horrible cow," she added in explanation.

Marie Corelli answered characteristically with a quotation from "Hamlet:" "I eat the air, promise crammed. You cannot feed capons so."

Got Over the Limit.

The late Senator Sawyer of Wisconsin was a very generous giver of charity and of presents, which neither he nor the beneficiary would have cared to denominate as charity, though the gifts amounted to much the same. He told a friend one day that he was going to turn over a new leaf and try to keep his donations down to a limit that would not exceed $1,000 a month. Three months after he had announced this resolution his friend asked how he had made out.

"I started out pretty well," he replied, "and if I hadn't given an old friend of mine in Wisconsin who had struck hard luck $10,000 last month I think I should have kept within the limit."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Try a Change.

You have probably tried the plan of making others miserable and found little comfort in it. Try making others happier. Possibly it will suit you better. Too many people have the habit of saying disagreeable things to and about others. There is no pleasure in it, but there is so much unhappiness in the world that you can gain genuine satisfaction by saying kind things of people, by doing kind things. Don't cut and slash. It only makes miserable people more miserable. The fact that others cut and slash you is no excuse for adopting their mistaken policy. With a little modesty and a little kindness you can do missionary work every day and accomplish a great deal of good.—Atchison Globe.

The Newly Elected Alderman.

When a politician has just been elected a member of the council and the directory man comes around next day and asks him what his occupation is, he has to struggle with himself sometimes not to answer, "Statesman."—Somerville Journal.

Wrangling In the Choir.

"Why can't you be obliging?" cried the facetious music rack. "The bells play when they're tolled. Come, give us a tune!"

"No," grumbled the organ in deep diapason. "I'll be blowed if I do!"—Philadelphia Press.

Hardened.

"How came a man of your ability and position in society ever to engage in counterfeiting?" the judge asked him.

"I wanted a light, easy way to make money at my own home, your honor," answered the prisoner.

The judge looked at him sharply and gave him the full limit of the law.—Chicago Tribune.

AN ANCIENT BELIEF.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of siatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the affliction is demoniac enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the only remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

WINE OF CARDUI

THE LINK THAT BINDS.

JACKSON, TENN., Nov. 23.

I was subject to miscarriage for three years, and suffered constantly with backache. I wrote to you for advice, and after using three bottles of Wine of Cardui, according to your directions, I am strong and well, and the mother of a fine girl baby.

Mrs. E. N. JOWERS.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

There is no use talking—a baby in the house is the link that binds husband and wife together. Nothing is sadder than fruitless wedlock. The prattling and cooing of the little ones offset a thousand times the occasional worries and trials of life. When a wife is barren, there is a derangement somewhere in the genital organs, caused by one or more of those common disorders known as "female troubles". Wine of Cardui is the remedy. It puts the organs of generation in a strong and healthy condition, fitting the wife for the sacred duty of reproducing her kind. During the period of gestation the entire system of the expectant mother is built up to withstand the ordeal of labor, and when the little one makes its advent it is lusty and strong, well-fitted to grow to maturity in perfect health. The mother, too, passes through the trial with little pain and no dread. Wine of Cardui is truly a wonderful medicine for women.

How Lincoln Won His Wife.

Mr. Lincoln used to take great delight in telling how he gained a knife by his ugly looks. That has been published, but I have not seen another in print telling how he gained his wife. Mrs. Lincoln was a beautiful lady, attractive, sharp, witty and relished a joke even at her own expense. She was staying with her sister, Mrs. Edwards. She had not been there long before everybody knew Miss Mary Todd. She often said: "When a girl, I thought I would not marry until I could get one of the handsomest men in the country, but since I became a woman I learned I can't get such a man, which has caused me to change my mind. I have concluded now to marry the ugliest looking man I can find."

Later on Lincoln came to town. She had never seen him before she met him on the street. She was told who he was and went home and told her sister she had seen her man, "the ugliest man I ever saw, Abraham Lincoln, and I am going to set my cap for him."

That became a common saying in street gossip. When they were married, instead of taking a bridal trip, they went to the Globe hotel, owned by the writer and occupied by a tenant. They took board at $4 a week. When he got able, he bought a lot for $200 and built a four room house costing less than $1,000. When he received $5,000 from his great railroad case, he spent $1,500 of it in putting a second story on his house, and there he lived until he went to Washington.—Thomas Lewis in Leslie's Weekly.

He Telegraphed Up One Flight.

That New York is a big city which the stranger seldom learns very well was quite forcibly impressed upon a certain well known Californian a few days ago. He visits New York twice a year and has long since learned to find his way about.

He was charging about in the business district and suddenly remembered that he wanted to telegraph to a friend whose offices are at 195 Broadway. The Californian dashed into the nearest telegraph office, wrote out his dispatch and, covering it with the coin, passed it through the wicket to the receiver. The receiver smiled.

"What is the matter?" demanded the Californian.

"Why, this is 195 Broadway," said the receiver, "and your man is up just one flight of stairs."

There was a confused period that lasted about a second, and when the Californian got his nerve back he calmly said: "I know that. Let it go anyway. I guess I can telegraph across the room or this counter if I want to and have the money. We do that thing out in California every day for a joke."

The receiver may have been bluffed, but as receivers go they are hard to impress.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Easily Managed.

House Hunter—But are you sure that the cellar is perfectly dry?

Real Estate Dealer—Oh, you may be sure of that! Never was a drop of water ever seen in it, even in the wettest kind of weather.

House Hunter—Sorry about that. Do you know I have a theory that a damp cellar is the healthiest thing in the world. In my opinion the water in a cellar absorbs noxious gases, and, besides, it so moistens the whole atmosphere of the house as to make it more grateful to the lungs.

Real Estate Dealer—Come to think of it, it was that other house on the other side of the street that has the dry cellar. The cellar in this house is never free from water. Really, sir, I think it will suit you immensely.—Boston Transcript.

Is Alaska Growing Warmer?

Prospective visitors and gold seekers in the Klondike region may extract some comfort from the discovery, made by the Harriman Alaska expedition, that most of the glaciers which abound in that territory are receding. The fact is an indication that the average weather there is growing warmer. If it were growing colder the glaciers would be advancing, while if it were about the same one year with another they would maintain the same general position, neither creeping nearer to the sea nor melting away from their terminal moraines. The rate of glacial recession is so slow, however, that fur overcoats and warm sleeping bags are likely to remain as a part of the necessary equipment of Alaskan travel for some years to come.—Leslie's Weekly.

Wonders of New Hampshire.

The average reader will be amazed to learn that little New Hampshire, with less than 10,000 square miles, has no less than 406 lakes and ponds, 154 brooks, 58 rivers and 294 mountains. This makes Iowa look small. Colorado, a big state, has 556 creeks. Texas has comparatively few rivers, lakes and creeks. Alabama has 663 creeks and 87 rivers. Iowa cannot approach that record. Minnesota has 222 lakes and 140 rivers.—New York Press.

In the Crimea the British left 60,000 corpses, which are interred in 130 cemeteries on ground occupied by the troops during that long and disastrous war.

A TRAMP AND HIS PAL

THE TRAIL THAT ONE MADE TO GUIDE THE OTHER.

It Enabled "Appetite Bill," After His Term In Jail Was Done, to Unerringly Follow His Partner From Cincinnati to Houston.

"We have a good many tramps up in our part of the country," said a sugar planter, "and I've made something of a study of their peculiarities. The old idea that they carve marks and signs on fences that can be read by all other members of the fraternity is pure nonsense, of course, but I have known several instances in which one tramp would leave a trail, so to speak, for the guidance of a partner who might not put in an appearance for months.

"The first case of that kind I ever encountered was rather amusing. I was riding, one spring day, down a road that passes through my place, when I noticed a typical hobo industriously carving a sort of hieroglyphic on a big post standing near the fence. The mark consisted of a square and triangle side by side, and he was just putting on the finishing touches as I arrived.

"My curiosity was at once aroused, and I determined to find out if possible exactly what the thing meant, so I proceeded to collar the fellow, and after a little vigorous bluffing he told me he was putting up directions for his partner, who would be along some time in the fall. He assured me that the marks meant nothing in particular, except that he had passed and was going in the direction of the point of the triangle.

"His partner, according to the story which I dragged out of him piecemeal, was doing a six months' jail sentence for slugging a policeman in Cincinnati and when he got out on Sept. 1 would strike south, following a trail of carvings on water tanks, depots, barns and fenceposts. When the first tramp struck a good place to loaf, he proposed to stop and wait for the other to catch up.

"'What's your partner's name?' I asked.

"'It's by rights William Sparks,' said the hobo, 'but everybody calls him "Appetite Bill" on account of his always being hungry. He carries a sack to pack grub in and has red whiskers and a funny looking wart on one side of his nose.'

"I was satisfied from my prisoner's manner that he was telling me the truth, so I took him up to the house, gave him a good dinner and sent him on his way rejoicing.

"Now for the sequel," continued the planter. "One afternoon in the fall I was driving home from the station when I passed a very dilapidated hobo with red stubble on his chin and a gunny sack under his arm, and some instinct told me that Mr. Sparks, alias 'Appetite Bill,' had at last arrived. He seemed to be looking for landmarks, and when he reached the big post I saw him stop, scrutinize the carving and then start off with a new and confident step. That settled it, and I drove ahead and intercepted him at the house, half a mile farther on.

"'Hello, Bill!' I said. 'How's your appetite this evening?'

"'Appetite?' he stammered and gave such a violent start that he dropped his gunny sack.

"'Why, yes,' said I. 'Perhaps they didn't feed you very well at Cincinnati.'

"At the word Cincinnati he turned livid and glared around with such evident intention of bolting that I made haste to explain.

"'Don't be alarmed,' I said. 'I met your side partner a few months ago, and he told me to look out for you.' It took me some time to dissipate Bill's suspicions, but when I finally succeeded in convincing him that it was all right he told me a most interesting story of his journey across the country.

"A professional hobo will follow the track of another hobo with an accuracy that is curiously suggestive of woodcraft. All the way down from Cincinnati Bill had never once lost the trail, and before he left I gave him an addressed postal card and got him to promise me he would put it in the mail at whatever point he caught up with his partner. Less than a month later I received the card, bearing a Houston (Tex.) date mark; so I presume it was there they met.

"Both of these tramps could read and write, and I asked Sparks particularly why his friend didn't use some brief message in place of the hieroglyph. He replied that it would attract too much attention, and other hoboes would be likely to add misleading words, while the little square and triangle passed unnoticed.

"Since then I have encountered two other nearly similar cases, in each of which a tramp was leaving a cipher trail for a crony to follow when he got out of jail, and I infer that the practice is tolerably common. At any rate it is a curious feature of tramp life which I have never seen mentioned in any of the numerous papers and magazine articles that have appeared on the subject during recent years."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Lord John Russell was not tactful. On one occasion he took the Duchess of Inverness down to dinner, and after he had sat down for a minute he jumped up and went to the opposite side of the table and sat by the Duchess of St. Albans.

His wife asked him afterward why he had done it. He said, "I should have been ill if I had sat with my back to that great fire."

"I hope," said Lady John, "you gave your reason to the Duchess of Inverness."

"No," he said, "I didn't, but I told the Duchess of St. Albans!"

CATARRH CAN BE CURED BY

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

"DANGER IN THE EARTH AND AIR; DANGER EVERYWHERE."

A Wise and Venerable Doctor Talks about Advanced Science.

In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of well dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers.

My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all diseases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheria. Here is the bacillus of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh."

"I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged."

The Doctor answered. "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the mucous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrhal affections. In its worst phase, the patient becomes loathsome both to himself and his friends.

"I believe," continued this great physician, "that the true way to heal catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alteratives which act as blood purifiers."

Betsy A. Marett, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes:

Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk, I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I bought another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health. I continued its use, and felt I was growing stronger; my sleep was refreshing, and it seemed as if I could feel new blood moving through my veins. I kept on taking it, and now consider myself a well and rugged woman. I work all the time, and am happy. I am positive that the Sarsaparilla saved my life. The sick headaches I have had since childhood, have disappeared, and my catarrh has almost entirely left me. I cannot be too thankful for what Johnston's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I recommend all women who have sick headaches to use your Sarsaparilla.

SMALL TALK.

Interesting Bits of Gossip Picked Up on the Streets.

A small party of young gentlemen and ladies enjoyed a picnic at Guilford Battle Ground this afternoon.

The Greensboro people who went on the excursion from Danville to Washington Monday returned this morning. They report a pleasant trip.

Miss Louise Foushee will entertain the Young People's Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church at her home on North Elm street this evening.

At the Davidson College commencement yesterday the degree of A. M. was conferred on Mr. L. G. Beall, of this city. He graduated last year with the degree of A. B.

The library of the Lindsay Street School will be open Wednesdays and Saturdays from 10:30 to 11:30 to white children from schools Nos. 1, 2, and 3, and to former graduates.

There is a movement on foot to organize a lodge of Elks in Greensboro. It is a social and fraternal order, with benevolent and protective features. The order has flourishing lodges in Charlotte, Asheville, Wilmington, Winston and other places in North Carolina.

Rev. Dr. J. C. Rowe, who is to deliver the literary address at the commencement of Trinity Park High School, Durham, next Saturday, is mentioned by the Raleigh News and Observer as "a member of the senior class." His friends, and doubtless the Doctor himself, will be surprised to learn that he is again a schoolboy.

The commencement at the State Normal and Industrial College, June 19th, 20th and 21st, will occur immediately after the meeting of the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly at Morehead City. Railroad tickets to Morehead will be sold with stop-over privileges at Greensboro, thus enabling the friends of the institution who may be passing about that time to attend the Normal commencement.

A Loud Voiced Bird.

A story runs that on a certain day two men, one of them very deaf, were walking by the railway. Suddenly an express train rushed by, and as it passed the engine emitted a shriek that seemed to rend the very sky.

The hearing man's ears were well nigh split, but the deaf man struck an ecstatic attitude. Then, turning to his suffering friend, he said, with a pleased smile:

"That's the first robin I've heard this spring!"—Kansas City Independent.

Unless food is digested quickly it will ferment and irritate the stomach. After each meal take a teaspoonful of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and will allow you to eat all you need of what you like. It never fails to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia. It is pleasant to take. Howard Gardner.

His One Suggestion.

"Furthermore, John Henry Meeker," said Mrs. Meeker, who was standing in front of the mirror and putting the finishing touches to her toilet, "I want you to take notice that I am perfectly capable of getting ready for church without any prompting from you, and you can cough and look at your watch as much as you please—it won't hurry me a single second. Do you clearly understand that?"

"Yes, my dear," mildly replied Mr. Meeker, "though I think I could understand it a little better if you didn't have your mouth quite so full of hairpins."—Chicago Tribune.
